

Assignment #1

SGG 3643 – Programming III: Web Presentation

General Information

The presentation of a person and his scientific work is important for professional life. Information about projects and research topics are published more and more using the World Wide web.

Objective of this assignment

- § Understanding of the differences between paper writing and screen based presentation,
- § Understanding of basic design criterias,
- § Learning of principles Markup languages (like HTML, XML) and additional (scripting) languages, based on current standards,
- § Basic architecture of web sites,
- § Development of quality web pages.

Scope of Assignment

Please deliver your HTML files with the following contents:

- § personal homepage
- § your CV
- § images
- § etc.

Your HTML pages must include internal and external links. It should be based on a managed directory structure (main directory, subdirectory for images, etc.)

Form of assessment

Criteria:

- § Structure, content and design of the web pages
- § Conformance with actual standards.
- § Use HTMLTidy to check if your page is error free!